REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: None of the cited prior art, either that cited by applicants or that discovered by the Examiner is sufficient to either disclose or render obvious the claimed inventions set forth in claims 17-19. The Examiner makes two general observations: None of the cited art discloses a "system for determining a fit...." beyond the elements set forth inside the "comprising" section of applicants' independent claims, which the Examiner believes is necessary; i.e. the preambles of the independent claims are given positive structural weight which none of the prior art of record can satisfy. Second, the "comprising" sections of applicants independent claims reads on a particular type of adhesive tape (applicants most preferred embodiment for the "comprising" section) which is satisfied by disclosing a flexible carrier and an attachment agent on one surface of the carrier, and also disclosing on the opposing opposite surface of the carrier a "disclosing agent" such as particles (note the specification, paragraph No. 0034) which can be displaced from the flexible carrier when the system set forth in the claim preamble, e.g. a closure panel and a weather strip, are contacted together by the "comprising" section article, i.e. an adhesive tape of the requisite structure). None of the cited prior art, such as the two Nozaki et al references, disclose an adhesive tape which has a disclosing agent on the opposite side of the carrier. Indeed, none of the cited prior art appears to disclose any sort of disclosing agent in any sort of embodiment, and it is for these reasons that the application is clearly believed to be patentable .
